

HAKKARI REVIEW

2022 March Special Issue: Gender

Published twice a year on the online platform in June and December, The Journal of East Anatolian Social Sciences Trends (J-EAST), plans to start its publication adventure as Hakkari Review with a special issue in March 2022. We are waiting for your works for our special issue on the theme of "Gender".

Despite everything, women's struggle against various problems such as sexual assault and violence, denial of the right to education, honor killings, bad working conditions, the right to abortion, female genital mutilation and early marriage continues with all its might; As it is known, when we question the social order that rises on the basis of gender inequality, patriarchy, which we come across, determines the gender roles of women and men surrounded by social norms, limits women's rights and freedoms and makes her inequality in the home and social life invisible; moreover it reproduces the phenomenon. The fact that this phenomenon, which is normalized as "gender", is a cultural construction, shows that the binary gender regime based on femininity and masculinity as given and the heterosexist order based on hierarchy can change.

In this context, to our Special Issue, in which we aim to contribute to the literature by highlighting the current debates on gender inequality and not limited with these, we will be waiting for your articles until 15th February 2022, within the framework of the following topics;

- Feminist Theory
- Femininity / Masculinity
- Body
- Sexuality
- Violence and Discrimination
- Women and Militarism
- Queer Studies
- Eco-Feminism
- Media and Gender Representation Regime
- Women and Invisible Labor / Care Labor
- Law: Women's and Children's Rights
- Child abuse
- Women's Employment
- Holy Motherhood
- Right to Abortion
- Migration and Gender
- Nationalism, Ethnicity and Gender
- Everyday Life and Gender
- Economic Life and Gender
- Globalization, Global Inequality and Gender
- Urbanization, Environment and Gender
- Safety, Crime, Violence and Gender
- Health, Body, pandemic and Gender
- Education and Gender